Fund-Raisin' the Roof!

Finally, 1013 kicked it into gear and brought in some money to the team's funds. In two weeks, 1013 hit up local restaurants Subway, Rhino Caffe, and Panda Express for fundraisers. At each location, a night was dedicated to the Phoenix. Twenty percent of all the sales that night were then donated to the team.

The dollar amounts earned by these events are yet unknown to the public*, but the enthusiasm and support for the team the student body displayed upon receiving fliers for the events bodes well.

In addition, 1013 utilized the FLL Regional they hosted to not only allow all the teams in the East Valley compete for a chance to go to the state competition, but also earn some money—in the form of a snack bar. Hundreds of hungry and thirsty parents, kids, and mentors swarmed to indulge in its satisfying-goodness. At the end of the day, they team brought in $531.55 in profits from the concessions.

Several more fundraisers for the next two months have already been lined up. These include, but are not limited to, Costa Vida, Dominos, and Pizza Hut.

1013 owes much thanks to its surrounding community for its willingness to support the expenses of travel, build, and competitions. That gratitude also extends to all the parents who dedicate their time to the team's needs. In particular, Kristi Armentrout deserves a thanks for her help in putting together the snack bar.

*All yet unknown figures will be announced in next month's issue in the highlights.

East Valley FLL Regional

Queen Creek High's the Phoenix hosted their annual FLL regional's for the third year in a row, it was a great success. Through all the chaos and commotion, out flourished great victory for the majority of the teams. This competition was not just about the kids, the mentors and wells as parents were there to help motivate the kids to do their best and have fun. As you make your way around the teams, there were many unique robots, most of which has dissimilar designs from one another, which made an exciting factor to see how they were going to run. The teams went through three rounds of competing with other teams, and then to make it even more exciting we held an elimination game. It was just a fun round of competing with the kids while the judges rounded up their scores. We congratulate and applaud the teams who came out and participated in this event, your all champions the second you started your team.
